Well, I need to add a statement. Gage you were never adopted by my Dad. I received legal proof that there was no legal adoption. The question is if you were adopted why not change your last name lol.???? I don't think I would want to be attached to that last name you have now considering who you came from. The only reason I didn't visit was because of you guys I talk to my dad all the time, but visiting him was like a freak show because of all of the trash in that house and around you

Only my Dads sister would disrespect an obituary by trying to make her own. You and Dad were never close. He had lots of friends and family, but it was my choice not to add people to the obituary that he could care less for.
