“ I grew up in the Big Bend area a few years younger than John. Very few people had telephone and cars were limited, also, there wasn't any close neighbor. If there were a problem, someone would go to the Big Bend Church and ring the bell alerting people in hearing distance to gather there to help the need. People worked hard to provide for the family. I remember seeing John, who walked a long way to get food supplies, carrying it home to the family.
